Privacy Policy – March 2026

The Data Protection Act 2018

“The Data Protection Act 2018 controls how your personal information is used by organisations, businesses or the government.

The Data Protection Act 2018 is the UK’s implementation of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).”

Collection of Data

In order to comply with safeguarding policies, to ensure health and safety requirements are met and to ensure important information is provided to those working with the project, Reddish Events will request and store safely a limited amount of personal data. This may include contact information, emergency contact information and health issues for those participating in our activities and events that may require our attention and appropriate response. We may also request to know the interests of participants so that we can deliver a person centred approach when meeting their needs.

The data / information we collect will usually be formally submitted to us via online forms, however should associates and the general public provide contact information requesting response and updated information, contact details may also be kept and stored securely.

How We Use Data

We maintain regular contact with the parents and carers of young people we provide services for. This is to ensure logistical information is accurate and is one part of ensuring the safety of young people. We maintain occasional contact with associates and partners with whom we may deliver programmes and / or events. We maintain occasional contact with those who have made enquiries, providing news updates regarding our projects and events. We do not sell or make available any data or personal information to any 3rd party or associate organisation.

How We Keep Data Safe

Our administrator maintains the central information e-mail and database on a password controlled home based computer system. All e-mail is sent out to individuals not as 'carbon copy' but as individual, personal communication.

Dissolution Of Project

Should there be a need to dissolve Reddish Events, notification will be provided and once all legal obligations are met, e-mail account and database will be deleted.

Removal From Our Database

Should you wish to receive no communication from us, with your data removed from our records, please contact Reddish Events by e-mail.
